KNOCKED IN HEAD WITH WAGON SPOKE

Father Informed of Advances
On Daughter, Immediately
Seeks Revenge.

Enraged when his daughter told him of advances made by Robert Guthrie, confectioner, of Fordsville, Jesse Sarver, merchant of Vanzant, Breckinridge County, went to Fordsville, Monday, and seeking out Guthrie, struck him on the head with a wagon spoke. Guthrie was not killed outright but is now at the point of death.

Sarver's 12-year-old daughter, who is a student in Fordville Graded School, claims that Guthrie enticed her into his store and made some advances unbecoming a gentleman. This is alleged to have occurred sometime last week. The father learned of the matter and went to Fordville, Monday. Not knowing the accused he asked, Arthur Smith, who is in business near Guthrie's confectionery, to introduce him. Smith, knowing nothing of Sarver's intent, made the introduction. Instead of offering his hand, Sarver reached behind him and produced a wagon spoke, which he had concealed in his hip pocket and extended under his coat, and struck Guthrie a terrific blow upon the head. Soon after committing the deed, Sarver went to the office of Dr. Denton and requested him to attend the injured man, which the physician did. He then went to Town Marshall Walter Burden, and had himself placed under arrest. He soon gave bond and was released.

Guthrie is a married man and has three children. Sarver is about thirty years of age.—Hartford Herald.

Robert Guthrie, age fifty-nine the Fordville confectioner, who on Monday was struck over the head with a wagon spoke and probably fatally wounded by Jesse Sarver, a merchant of Vanzant, Breckinridge county, after Sarver heard that he had enticed his twelve year old daughter into his confectionery and made unbecoming remarks to her, recovered consciousness about 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon, and according to Dr. Denton, who is attending him has a chance to recover. Guthrie had been unconscious since the blow was dealt him over the right temple. Sarver was placed under $100 bond, but it is said that probably nothing will be done unless Guthrie dies.—Owensboro Messenger.

HEALTH BOARD WORK IN SCHOOLS

Defects Discovered Among School Children Treated by County Health Boards.

Louisville, Ky. March 5.—As an illustration of the importance of the work that is being done in the schools of the six counties of Kentucky that maintain full-time county health departments, Dr. P. W. Covington, director of the Bureau of County Health Work of the State Board of Health, today made public here the 1920 figures on the number of school children that were inspected and the number found defective in those six counties.

These figures were as follows:

These inspections were made with particular reference to the condition of the eyes, nose, throat and ears and for any condition that might handicap the mental development of the child examined. ## ALL DAY MISSION- ARY MEETING

Held at Home of Mrs. D. B. Phelps. Mrs. E. A. Babbage
Elected Delegate to O'boro.

The Methodist Woman's Missionary Society held an all day meeting at the home of Mrs. D. B. Phelps on Monday of this week Mrs. Shelby Conrad, the new president had worked up a splendid program and the interest was at high tide throughout the day. After devotional service the regular business was taken up at eleven-thirty. The most important item of the morning session was the appointment of an early morning prayer meeting for Volunteers for Christian Service. This meeting will be held at the church on Good Friday beginning at 6:30 and continuing until 8:30. All christian women of the town are invited to engage in this special service.

An elegant luncheon was served at the noon hour, after which Mrs. Baldrige led devotions and business was resumed. Financing the work for the year and the election of a delegate to the annual meeting at Owensboro were the most important items. Several women agreed to attend by the day and Mrs. Eldred A. Babbage was elected the delegate with Mrs. Conrad Sippel as alternate.

The social service topic for the quarter "Farm Tenancy" was discussed with an interest that showed the women were getting "lined up" for the new responsibilities devolving upon them for the betterment of conditions in our country. The rest of the afternoon was profitably taken up with the presentation of the book "Women and Missions" studied by the class.

Other all day meetings will be held during the spring and summer. Interest in the work is growing and new members are added from time to time as the church is being won to the work.

MRS. SARA RANDALL ATTENDS INAUGURATION

Mrs. Sara Puckette Randall, former Hawesville girl attends the inauguration of President Harding in Washington, March 4th. Mrs. Randall, being guest of Mr. John Pasque, Private Secretary of Senator McDuffy, of Alabama. Below is a portion of a letter of despatch to her mother, Mrs. Margaret Puckette of this city:

"Well, the great event happened yesterday and I'm glad it's all over. Mr. Harding sure did have a wonderful day for his inauguration. It was clear and sunny, though pretty cold. In spite of the omission of the parade hall, etc., the town was simply packed. The inauguration was rather solemn and beautiful. It was expected to take place about 12 o'clock, but it didn't start until about 2 or after. You see the 66th Congress had to be absolutely wound up and dead before the new administration could start.

Harding took his oath on the Capitol steps, and by the aid of an amplifier his speech could be heard for 3-4 of a mile. It is a little electrical machine that rested on the stand in front of him and carried his voice to the thousands standing around.

After the oath was taken the Marine band played the "Star Spangled Banner" and all the men stood with hats off, and not a sound was heard. Then came his address. It was a wonderful speech and if he means it we will have a glorious administration. He is certainly against the League and says 'abnormal prices can be reduced and they must.' That sounds good doesn't it?

Poor Mr. Wilson rode to the Capitol with the inaugural party, but he had to be lifted into the machine. He has no control over one side of his body. It's very sad to think how he has broken himself down in the service of his people. Everyone says he will not live long.

The White House grounds and Mansion are wide open to the people as in the days of Roosevelt. This p. m. as I came from work there were several hundred people on the lawn and the big iron gates were wide open with not even a guard at the gates. That is going to make a big hit with the people."—Hancock Clarion.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.

The Board of Supervisors for Breckinridge County is in session at Hardinsburg, this week. The members of the board are: V. D. Bennett, W. T. Dowell, Gus Shellman, Henry Cary, Dick Perkins, H. C. Gilbert and Mc H. Quiggins, clerk.

COUNTY FARM BU- REAU MEETING

Sealed Bids Received on Fertilizer; Contract Let to Armour & Co. at $28 Per Ton.

The Breckinridge County Farm Bureau through its buying committee met at their headquarters last Saturday for the purpose of purchasing fertilizer. Representatives of quite a number of the largest fertilizer companies in the country were present. The purchasing committee of the Bureau, announced that they would receive sealed bids from each company and would buy their fertilizer from the lowest and best bidder. Bids were handed in by the following companies: Read Phosphate Co., Nashville, Tenn.; Price Chemical Co., Louisville, Ky.; Armour & Co., Louisville, Ky.; Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co., Cincinnati, Ohio; International Agricultural Corporation, Cincinnati, Ohio; International Agricultural Corporation, Montgomery, Ala. After examining the bids the contract was let to Armour & Co. In this connection it might be proper to say that the price of fertilizer is in a very unsettled condition. Farmers would not stand for the price given out at the start which was about $31 per ton after-wards reduced to $28.

The Farm Bureau has lowered all these prices and it will be well for farmers at once to see the agents of the Bureau who are taking orders for carload lots. It is to be regretted very much that some interests seem opposed to the Farm Bureau or any other organizations of farmers who buy fertilizer and other goods needed in the operation of farms in large quantities and at wholesale prices. We understand that some of these interests are inclined to cut under any price the Farm Bureau may establish in order to cripple the organization and reflect discredit upon it.

It is well known now, that the Farm Bureau has brought down the price of fertilizer, field seeds, and other commodities to an astonishing degree. And if their system of buying can be eliminated, prices will at once go back to the original figures. The Farm Bureau therefore earnestly requests that its members will stand to their organization and purchase their fertilizer through the Bureau.

RESOLUTIONS

"Who plucked that flower," cried the gardener. His fellow servant answered, "The Master," and the gardener held his peace.

It is with sadness and sorrow that we are called upon to place upon the minutes of our society resolutions on the death of Myrtle Johnson. Her passing away March 6th has left a vacancy that will be hard to fill. She was loyal to her church and Sunday school faithful in the society, a genial school mate, every ready to lend a helping hand. Yes we miss her but what of the home over which the dark pall of death was unfurled when the angel of death entered silently and whispered to Myrtle, "Your mission on earth is finished come up higher that you may lead others by your example and work that will follow you."

Therefore Resolved: That we bow submissively to the will of our heavenly Father.

That we extend sympathy to the bereaved loved ones to whom she meant so much.

Resolved: That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family. A copy placed on record in our society, and a copy sent to The Breckinridge News for publication.

Committee: Cecil Gregory, Christina Keil, Mable Whitehead.

DAVE STARKS LOSES BARN AND TOBACCO.

A tobacco barn belonging to Dave Starks, of Skillman was completely destroyed by fire a few days ago. Mr. Starks had his entire crop of tobacco in the barn at the time it burnt. The origin of the fire is unknown but is believed to have been caused by lightning.

Mr. Starks recently moved from his farm to the Lee farm near Midway and was not at the place when the barn burnt. It is estimated that the barn and tobacco was worth about $300, partly covered by insurance.—Hancock Clarion.

JUDGE LAYMAN RUNNING EASY.

Circuit Judge J. R. Layman, Elizabethtown, who presides over Hardin, Grayson, Meade and Breckinridge Judicial District, was in Louisville, last week on his way to hold court at Hardinsburg, in the latter county.

While he did not say so, Judge Layman has no opposition or it is likely that he will have any. It is also understood that Henry DeHaven Mooradian, of Hardinsburg, will be given a clear field for the Democratic nomination to succeed himself as Commonwealth's Attorney.—Louisville Times.

DESCRIBING BOUNDS IS NOW DIFFICULT

Geographical Lines Largely Abolished Since World War and Lessons Must Be Re-learned.

In the old geographies, the bounding of countries and states was one of the exercises in which pupils became proficient through long and regular practice. For many decades, those boundaries were firmly fixed and unchanged but with the ending of the war and the Peace Conference and the geographers were forced to revise the old limitations of territory.

Also as a result of the lessons of the war, the citizens of America have been able to revise the limitations which bound them. Each still is bounded on one side by the high cost of living, on another by his limit of earning capacity on a third by his duty to his community, his family and himself. But, his net income, his boundary on the fourth side is not a hard and fixed limitation.

Through saving and safe investment opportunity for expansion is unlimited.

Wise spending, economy, saving and wise investment are no less important in determining the net income than the earning capacity which provides the gross amount. The amount which it is possible to save must be determined by each individually, but in the safe-guarding of that sum no matter how large or how small the U. S. Government stands ready and willing to offer assistance through the issue of Government Savings Securities.

These securities range in amount from the 25 cent Thrift Stamp and the $5 War Savings Stamp to the $100 and $1,000 Treasury Savings Certificates. All are safe and profitable. They bring sure and regular interest at 4 per cent compounded quarterly.

If you bound your state in life with these savings securities you have an elastic boundary which will expand with your expansion and keep pace with your growth in industry, ability and capital.

RESOLUTIONS

Resolutions of respect on death of Mrs. C. W. Hamman.
Whereas, our Heavenly Father in His divine wisdom deemed it wise to call from earth to Heaven on February the tenth, Nineteen Hundred and Twenty-One, sister Anna Pearl Hamman.

Be it resolved first:
That we bow submissively to His will, and thank Him for her useful and beautiful life.

She was a faithful Christian, and gave liberally of her time and means to the cause she loved so well.

Second, That in her death this church has lost a faithful and valiant member, and one who was ever interested in the progress of God's kingdom.

Resolved, That we tender our heart felt sympathy and Christian support to the bereaved family. While your hearts are torn with grief, He is ever willing and able to sustain in the hour of trial, and guide through the dark valley.

As God's children you will soon meet again in the realms beyond where there is no more sorrow, no more tears, no more parting.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread on the minutes of the church, a copy be sent to the family and a copy be published in The Breckinridge News.

MILD WINTER AND MORE FEED MAKE MORE POUNDS AT LESS COST.

The commercial cattle situation is encouraging. The mild winter and abundance of feed have enabled the making of more pounds at less cost. Recently feeding cattle prices advanced considerably. Taking a general survey of the country there is a market shortage. Arizona is the only state that has more cattle than a year ago.

That is on account of the fact that rangemen there contracted last year's crop to men, many of whom were unable to complete the deals. Some of the most important steer feeding counties in Kansas and many other sections are far short of normal supplies. The North-western range country is extremely short on cattle. This condition ought to make a fine demand for Shorthorn bulls and will, as soon as bankers take their thumbs off the screws.—Shorthorn World.

Reasonable Prices Have Come Back Again

We can say this with full certainty now.

While we were clearing out our old goods, and manufacturers were clearing out their old goods to us, it told little about what prices would be when spick-span-new goods were to be marked.

But now THE NEW GOODS ARE COMING IN, and most of the other new goods have been bought, and we know that PRICES ARE A-WAY DOWN and permanently down, on practically everything you want to buy, and we are looking forward to a pleasant season of Spring selling, because our customers will be much happier in buying when everything is really worth the price paid for it again.

Gathering merchandise for our customers today requires extreme vigilance and fullest knowledge of the lowering markets. We have been wide awake and cautious and courageous by turns. Now we are highly gratified with what he have accomplished, and each day we grow more eager for you to see and realize what we have done in your service.

Many of the new goods are here—others are coming in every day. Better in quality—broader in variety—lower in price.

That is why the store is daily more interesting and worth while to visit.

ANNOUNCES BUSINESS PICKING UP

Ford Says Worst of Depression Over; Calls Slack Business in Disarmament Drive.

Detroit, March 9.—Henry Ford today announced that business is picking up in his part of the country and that the rest of the United States should follow along very soon.

"The condition which the country is just passing through ought to do more for world peace and disarmament than all the writing and speech-making and parleying in the world. The war brought on a false prosperity. What has followed the war has proved it was false," said Mr. Ford.

Plans for his new power project and factory at Green Island, near Troy, N. Y., are being whipped into shape.

"The worst is over," said Mr. Ford. "With the country getting back to work and people beginning to buy, it will not take long for the situation to better. Of course, it will be different from the condition before the war. There will be more measures of economy in every way, but the volume of business will continually grow."

"Our factories are turning out at present about 3,000 automobiles and 200 tractors each day, which is pretty nearly the pre-war schedule, even with the smaller number of men employed."

"Everyone should make up his mind that he must take a loss for a while, employers as well as workers," he added. "It is the only way to get business back where it belongs."

Estimates from a reliable source place the number of men at work in the Highland Park Ford plant about 24,000 men, and at the tractor plant about 6,000 men.

AN OLD WHITE SKIRT—AN ECONOMY STORY.

Have you an old white skirt which you thought ready for the rag bag? What is the matter with it? It is too tight around the hips. Rip out the hem and if it is worn on the fold cut it off. Raise the skirt until it is large enough around the hips. Cut off the top and attach to an inner belt. Unless your old inner belt is as good as new buy a new one, for the inner belt often makes the success of failure of a skirt. Even off the bottom, and if not too short, fact it. Otherwise you will have to make a false hem. What is a false hem? It is merely a strip of cloth, straight or bias, as preferred, which is set on the bottom of the skirt to represent a hem (not a facing). It may be of the same or of contrasting material. Use a plaid or a striped material add a touch to pockets or belt, and show your friends a brand new sport skirt.

Is your skirt too large? Either take up the seams or recut it into a new style. Or, perhaps the top is too worn to use any more. Put on a new yoke of similar material. In case you have no more of the old material use any white material and wear the skirt with middie blouses or one of the new long blouses. You might make a new middie blouse from the old skirt. Use the bottom of the skirt for the bottom of the blouse. Measure up the length desired and cut the top of the blouse by a plain waist pattern. Add sleeves, collar and belt of similar or contrasting material and you are ready for the next picnic.

Does Johnny need a new romper or a Sunday suit? Get out your pattern and arrange all of it on the unworn parts of the skirt before cutting. Make it all white or trim it with colored scraps from the useful rag bag. The material is strong enough to last Johnny a season and by that time he will have outgrown it. Or is it Mary that is in need? Make her a jumper dress to wear with thin white gumps which you can make from your old waists.

But you have no Mary or Johnny and you don't need another middie blouse? However, you do need a vestee for your tailored suit and that old piece, linen, or madras skirt will furnish the very latest material. Use your old vestee for a pattern or get a new style. Cut it double if you want it lined with the same material or line it with lawn and have two vestees. Cover button molds with the same material, or use pearl or black bone buttons, and you have as stylish an article as you'll find in the shops and for a much smaller amount. And that green linen needs a new collar and cuff set which you can cut from the old skirt.

So take that old skirt out of the bag and look it over to see what wonders you can perform.

So sure is old Bill Johnson that he is going back to the penitentiary in Lincoln, Neb., that he has shipped his trunk to Warden Fenton.

Released from the state penitentiary several months ago under protest, Bill went immediately to the mayor and the chief of police, and finally to Governor McKelvie, demanding that he be sent back. At last he hit on a scheme. Obtaining employment with a publishing company, he disappeared from the office with $300. Later he surrendered at police headquarters.

CHICKEN FAT MAKES FINE PASTERIES

Clarified Fat Removed from Roasted Chicken and Cookies Shortened with Portion of It.

HOW TO USE A HUNDRED PER CENT FAT

Cooked Meat Improved for Having Part of Fat Removed—Department of Agriculture Advocates Its Use for Shortening Cakes, Cookies, and Pies—French Cooks Favor It For Pastrise.

"Use chicken fat, the most delicious of all cooking fats."

Beneath this placard at a recent food exhibit was a roasted chicken, delicious looking and browned to a tempting turn, and a glass full of clarified fat, the excess fat on the chicken.

"But," said one practical woman as she stopped in front of the booth, "I would not know how to use it if I did take it out before I made the gravy. If it can be used satisfactorily I'd like to know how."

The uniformed woman in the booth came forward smilingly. "I am glad you are interested in knowing how, for learning to use all our available fats is one of the primary lessons in thrift these days. I am here for the purpose of telling the value of chicken fat and how to use it, to all who will stop and listen. So many people do not seem to know that chicken fat can be used as a substitute for any fat your recipes call for."

Use Only Four-Fifths the Quantity. Just then another woman came up. "Well, I had abominable luck substituting chicken fat for butter in my recipes. Someone told me just what you are saying now, but my cake fell and my pie crust was a sight."

"I'm sorry about those cakes and pies," said the home demonstration agent in charge of the booth, "but I am afraid this someone with whom you talked did not finish her discussion. The fact that your cake fell would lead you to believe that the mixture was too rich, wouldn't it?"

"But why would that be?" broke in the first woman. "Think of the butter you used to make which had some water in it, and to which you usually added salt. Now chicken fat has no water in its contents; it is a 100 per cent fat. Butter contains practically 85 per cent fat. Chicken fat also lacks the salt and the small amount of curd present in fresh butter. The difference between chicken fat and butter for shortening, you see, is the difference in water content rather than fat, and that is why you should use less of the former."

"Then your directions would be to use less when you are using chicken fat in place of butter in cooking?"

"Yes, use about four-fifths as much fat as the recipe with butter calls for and add extra salt."

"Thank you, I will try that," said one.

"I am not ready to give in yet," said the other. "Chicken fat has a different flavor than butter and I would hesitate before I'd put it in my choicest white cake recipe for fear it would flavor it."

"Chicken fat does have a different flavor. When it is unclarified I would suggest using it only in cakes and cookies which have quite definite flavors of their own. However, I wish you would try it in your cake recipe after rendering it carefully in the way noted on this slip. I think you will find nothing objectionable in the flavor then."

How to Render Chicken Fat.

On the slip was printed: Heat the fat very slowly in a double boiler with whole milk (preferably sour). Use 1-2 cup milk to each pound of fat. Strain the rendered fat through a cloth and when it is set, life fat from the milk which remains.

"Chicken fat is valuable food," she went on, "for making other fats like suet, more usable. These harder fats, as beef and mutton suet, are much improved if rendered in the proportions of 2 parts to 1 of a softer fat, such as that obtained from the chicken. I would be well satisfied to use chicken fat altogether in my cooking, in preference to any other, could I get it, and it is the favorite fat of the French pastry cook."

"But it doesn't keep well," said the conservative one, "and that makes it a nuisance."

"It will become rancid and strong flavored," the home demonstration agent agreed, "just as other fats will if mistreated. If you wish to save it keep it tightly covered, in a cool place, and you will have little trouble."

"I hope you did not misunderstand me when I spoke of rendering chicken fat. It is not necessary in many instances to go to the trouble of rendering it. Chicken fat may be used for frying purposes just as it is. When it is used as shortening for muffins, spiced cookies or chocolate cake, where its characteristic flavor will not be noticed as it might in white cake or pastry, it can be melted slowly and measured without clarifying."

"Keep in mind that it is 100 per cent fat. Try a little experimenting and see if you do not find that you prefer it to any other shortening," she said, as the women started toward the next exhibit.

HABIT FORMATION

By Olive Roberts.

Mothers are often heard to say: "My children have such untidy habits, and I don't seem to be able to break them. I talk all day long, but it doesn't do any good."

No mother needs to endure her children's untidy habits, or any other undesirable habits, if she goes about training in the right way, and is willing to take a little trouble to carry it out. Four simple rules based on psychology, may serve to give such mothers an insight into the means of forming right habits. If carried out faithfully, these rules cannot fail to produce results.

First, decide for yourself what habit you wish to form. Then start enthusiastically and determinedly to break the old and launch the new one. Say to your children, "Beginning today, we are all going to hang up our wraps, and put our books and rubbers in the proper places when we come home from school. Let's see who remembers every time, and doesn't have to have Mother tell her once about it." Arouse as much enthusiasm as you can about the matter. Be careful that you do not start to break and form anew too many habits at one time. Select one or two habits to work on, and keep at them until you are reasonably sure that they are well fixed. Then start on another.

Second, permit no exceptions to occur after you have once started. No matter how good the intentions of the children are, they will lapse into the old ways after a few days. That is when you will have to work. You will find that eternal vigilance on your part will be the price of your children's good habits. When Mary comes home in a hurry to go out to play, she will throw her books on the nearest chair. Don't say, "Oh, well, she is little, and it is hard to remember all the time, I'll let it go this time." That is where you will fail. Even though Mary has already gone away to play, she should be called back immediately and told in a kind manner, "You forgot your books today. Put them away, and then you may go to play." One or two experiences of that kind will soon make Mary more careful.

Third, repeat the desirable action as often as possible. We all know that the habit it most firmly fixed which we have been practicing longest. Seize every occasion to perform the act which you wish to become a habit, and its acquisition will come all the sooner.

Last of all, act, don't talk. As Professor James says, in his Talks to Teachers, "Don't preach too much or abound in good talk in the abstract." When Mary throws her coat on the floor and her rubbers in the middle of the hall, don't tell her that nice little girls don't do those things, or that he is a careless girl and should know better, and a great deal more to that effect. Simply call her as soon as you discover what she has done, and tell her quietly and good-naturedly, and then see that she does it. Such treatment as this is far more effective than mere talking.

CROPS OF PHILIPPINES VALUED AT $344,000,000

High Prices and Greatly Increased Acreage Nearly Doubles Value in Year.

The value of the most important products of the Philippine Islands—rice, sugar, hemp, corn, coconuts and tobacco—for the year 1920 amounted to approximately $344,000,000, according to the preliminary annual report submitted by the secretary of agriculture to the governor general, Francis Burton Harrison.

In 1919 the value of these same six products was only $219,000,000. Dr. Galicano Apacible, secretary of agriculture, in his report says that while the increase in the value of Philippine products in 1920 was due largely to the high prices, the increase in acreage and the quality of the crops assisted in swelling the value.

In 1920 the area of land planted to rice amounted to 3,700,000 acres, an increase of 7 per cent over the previous year. This rice was all sold in the Philippines for approximately $127,400,000, an increase of 37 per cent over 1919.

The area planted to sugar cane last year was 403,507 acres, of which approximately 408,000 tons of sugar were harvested, the value being $70,028,000. Although there was a reduction of 1 per cent in the 1920 acreage from that of 1919, there was a 3 per cent increase in production of sugar.

The production of coconuts in 1920 amounted to 79,406,104 trees, valued at $61,000,000, as compared with 74,650,000 trees in 1919, valued at $37,000,000.

The tobacco production in 1920 amounted to 142,300,000 pounds from 252,800 acres, and was valued at $13,300,000. The increase in total production and in the value of the crop over 1919 amounted approximately to 18 per cent.

ANSWER TO ROCK ME TO SLEEP MOTHER

It was written by Mrs. Elizabeth Akers Allen, who wrote under the non de plume of "Florence Percy." This is the answer to "Rock Me To Sleep Mother," don't know the author.

My child, oh, my child; thou art weary tonight
Thy spirit is sad and dim is the light;
Thou wouldn't call me back from the echoless shore,
To the trials of life, to thy heart as of yore;
Thou longest again for my fond loving care,
For my kiss on thy cheek, for my hand on thy hair;
But angels around thee, their loving watch keep,
And angels, my darling, will rock thee to sleep.

Backward? Nay, onward, ye swift rolling years,
Girt on thy armor, keep back thy tears;
Count not thy trials nor efforts in vain—
They'll bring thee the light of thy childhood again,
Thou shouldn't not weary, my child, by the way,
But watch for the light of that brighter day;
Not tired of "sowing for others to reap,"
For angels, my darling, will rock thee to sleep.

Tired my child, of the base, the untrue,
I have tasted the cup they have given to you—
I've left the deep sorrow in the living green
Of a low mossy grave by a silvery stream;
But the dear mother I then sought for in vain
Is an angel presence and with me again;
And in the still night, from the silence so deep,
Come the bright angels to rock me to sleep.

Nearer thee now than in days that are flown,
Purer the love light encircling thy home;
For more enduring the watch for tonight,
Then ever earth worship away from the light,
Soon the dark shadows will linger no more,
Nor come to thy call from the opening door;
But know that my child, that the angels watch keep;
And soon, very soon, they'll rock thee to sleep.

They'll sing thee to sleep with a soothing song,
And waking, thoult be with a heavenly throng;
And thy life with its toil, its tears and its pain,
Thou wilt then see has not been in vain,
Thou wilt meet those in bliss whom on earth thou didst love,
And whom thou hast taught of the "mansions above,"
"Never hereafter to suffer to weep,"
The angels my darling, will rock thee to sleep.

WOODROW WILSON

By M'Cready Sykes—In Commerce &amp; Finance

Not yet may be written the judgment of history on Woodrow Wilson. Borne by vast world currents to a dizzy height, wherefrom, like Caesar, he did bestride the world like a Colossus, the fickle shifts of public opinion swiftly cast him down where, to follow the same parallel, there was none so poor to do him reverence. As his eventual administration ends he enters doubtless on the ascending curve of public esteem, whose oscillations will finally reach an equilibrium where shall be recorded the judgment of history on one who left a name at which the world grew pale. To point a moral or adorn a tale.

Mr. Wilson approached and entered public life by a short cut and without the apprenticeship that acquaints men with the workings of practical politics. He had written books on government, not alone on its purposes and accomplishments, but specifically on its workings. A lawyer who had never more than begun to practice, having early gone into teaching as a profession, he had no first-hand knowledge of courts, nor did he ever reveal special sympathy with the judicial point of view. He was too well informed, too catholic and comprehensive in his equipment, to be antagonistic to the judicial point of view; it was simply that his mind did not work that way. Neither temperamentally, nor by training did he have the habit of seeing the other side.

Contrary to a rather popular impression, he was never a selfish man. By training a schoolmaster, long before he entered public life his mental habits and processes were those inevitably resulting from daily dealing with minds less mature than his own. His career can be interpreted and understood only in the light of these ingrained mental habits. His characteristic insistence on his own way was to be attributed not so much to egotistical pride of opinion as to impatience of meticulous interference with broad policies, with the annoyance and lost motion resultant on tinkering with plans broadly conceived; always the schoolmaster's point of view.

In common with most men of intellectual vigor, he appreciated the transcendent value of a phrase. He made great phrases. His temperament was so rigidly intellectual, so aloof from the storm and stress of human relationship, that he undervalued the whole emotional category of human nature, so that his phrases sprang frequently from a false perspective and were often unfortunate. This maladroit intellectual twist prompted him, when the nation was thrilled with horror at the Lusitania sinking, to choose that moment of all moments for publicly declaring that there was such a thing as being too proud to fight, and to follow the invasion of Belgium with an adjuration to the people to be neutral even in their thought. Therefore he failed to react with full sympathy to the great currents that moved the hearts of men.

Nevertheless, he was marching at the head of his people when they followed the finest enthusiasm of their history. He stepped easily and adequately into the leadership of the world. He fired the universal heart with a ringing challenge. He stood for a moment on Pisgah. He saw the vision of the world, and all the wonder that would be.

It was at that point he made the catastrophic error of his career. At a moment when the country was still in the fire enthusiasm of its great adventure, when the forces of right were irresistibly sweeping to victory, he shocked his people by a partisan appeal for the election of a partisan Congress. It was a mistake vastly in its consequences to the prestige of the man who stood at the head of the world. History will ultimately record that it was a mistake done in honest singleness of purpose, far removed indeed from any thought of personal gain, but it was appalling in its result. It marked him in the world conference as the leader of a faction rather than as the embodied hope of humanity, and inevitably forced him into a position on which we think history will record its severest judgment, that of preventing the ratification of the League of Nations. It made the fight over amendments and reservations take the center of the stage. It made the President the one man responsible for preventing ratification, a fact that will survive and be remembered long after the reservations are forgotten.

So far as human judgment may forecast the long future, the place of Woodrow Wilson in history will be high. The tumult and the shouting dies; the captains and the kings depart. Still stands his contribution in articulating a great world impulse toward the things that make for justice and righteousness on earth. His failure was in futile attempt to compass that impulse within a particular scheme of world salvation. The paradox of it is that, singularly embodying as he did that impulse, he failed to comprehend either its grandeur or its vast potentiality. It was an impulse reflected in the rising of a mighty nation to redress the wrong balance of the world. The President dwarfed it by attempting to harness it to a league of diplomats sitting around a table. From an idealist he became a doctrinaire.

His consolation is that in the long judgment of history it is the articulation of the impulse that will be remembered. In the story of the centuries it will be written that for a few months he was the foremost man of all the world, and that those few months were the time of which mankind has perhaps most reason to be proud.

William McKillip, a merchant of Hollidaysburg, Penn., has received a letter, containing 10 cents, from Mrs. Florence T. Moore of New Carlisle, O., in payment for an apple that was surreptitiously eaten years ago.

THE RAILROADS

Stephen Bill and Edwin L. Barnes, in Commerce and Finance.

The Association of Railway Executives has abolished its labor committee, headed by W. W. Atterburg, which has been in existence since November, 1919. This is the first step in the decentralization of national bargaining by railroads with their employees on the wage question. The problem of reducing expenses, the wage item, is engaging the attention of all the carriers. Approximately 289,000 workers have been laid off since last September. This eliminates the 261,000 increase in employees which occurred during Federal control. A number of eastern railroads contemplate cutting wages of common labor, and conferences will be held in the near future. Among the roads planning reductions are the New York Central, Central of New Jersey, Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, Long Island and Baltimore & Ohio.

Unless a remedy is found for the present railroad situation, says Elisha Lee, vice-president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, the only way to provide for railway development will be to make the carriers state institutions, supported by increased taxation. Senator Cummins, chairman of the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce, plans to put before the new Congress a resolution calling for a sweeping investigation of the railroad situation, special inquiry to be made into the reason for the high operating costs. Washington advices say that the Senate will probably order the investigation to be made. Two partial payments to railroads, the first under the Winslow act, totaling $6,637,190, have been made to the Great Northern and the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul.

Approximately two-thirds of the 2,000 union employees of the Atlanta, Birmingham & Atlantic Railroad have walked out on strike because the receiver for the road, with the sanction of the court, ordered a reduction in wages amounting to 50 per cent of the increases since 1917. A sympathetic strike throughout the southeast is talked of.

Postponement of confirmation of the sale of the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad until March 25, during which time the stockholders may purchase the road for $10,000,000, has been ordered by Federal District Judge Lewis of Colorado. The sale, at $5,000,000, was originally fixed for Nov. 20, last. The Reading segregation plan is opposed by the committee representing the common stock on the ground that the plan in effect distributes to the preferred and common stockholders alike the existing surplus in which the preferred shareholders, except in dissolution, have no interest.

The railroads of the United States earned $62,264,421 in 1920, according to figures given out by the Interstate Commerce Commission, as against $516,290,090 in 1919. The railroads' expenses last year were 93.59 per cent of their operating revenues, as compared with 85.25 per cent in 1919. Operating expenses increased $1,406,000 over the previous year.

Freight traffic officials of various steamship lines have them "tied hand" railroads, complain that the coastwise coast to coast trade is concerned. The and foot" in so far as competition in only remedy railroad men see is a reduction in through rates. All water freight rates average 25 per cent under tariffs quoted by transcontinental lines and steamship companies have taken a large amount of business away from the railroads.

REAL FARMER'S RELIEF.

There is actual aid for farmers in this region in the $5,000,000 which will be loaned through the Louisville Federal Land Bank to farmers in Kentucky and adjoining States. The aid offered in the forney Emergency Tariff Bill was not real. The revival of the War Finance Corporation was mere political chicanery. Under the Supreme Court decision holding the Federal Farm Loan Act constitutional the farmers will get the benefit of constructive legislation enacted during the Wilson Administration and partly as a result of the President's wish.

Some farmers in Kentucky have been paying 8 per cent for money borrowed through banks, the law of supply and demand providing the bankers' excuse. Such borrowers may, by using as security farms which they hold under clear titles, reduce their interest payments. The farmer who borrows under the Federal Farm Loan Act is not obliged to hunt a money lender from whom he procures a loan as a favor. His borrowing is a business transaction purely, and by amortization his loan may be wiped out gradually.

Improvement in business, beginning in rural counties and in county capitals will result from the removal of the barrier raised between the farmer and his opportunities under the Federal Farm Loan Act by litigation instituted to test the validity of the law.

The Federal Reserve Act averted panic in America after the war. The Federal Farm Loan Act will avert disaster upon many farms, and upon a far greater number render substantial aid. Both laws were passed by members of Congress who had higher aims than those of the small politician with the large muck rake, the looming and dominant type in the Sixty-sixth Congress—Courier-Journal.

OLD SOLDIER TESTIFIES TO WONDERFUL MERITS NUMBER 40 IN CONSTIPATION, STOMACH TROUBLE AND CATARRH

National Home, Wis., May 12, '19. "When I commenced taking Number 40 For The Blood, I was suffering with chronic constipation of a good many years standing, which finally developed into stomach trouble which got so bad I was unable to eat anything that did not cause great suffering. I tried a good many doctors as well as everything I could hear of that was recommended for my complaint. I was also troubled with catarrh of long standing and I had dropsical swellings in my feet and ankles which the doctors said was caused by a weak heart. I had about given up hope of being much better when I saw an ad. of your No. 40 in a country paper and concluded to try it. I felt so much better after taking one bottle that I sent direct to you for three more bottles. I have taken about two and a half bottles and while not feeling entirely well, I believe by continuing the use of 40, I will get to feel as well as I could reasonably expect for a man of my age, 75 years. I hardly know how to estimate the value of the benefit I have already received from the use of No. 40, and cheerfully recommend it to anyone suffering as I was." Morris Law. Witness to signature, Nelson H. Peace. "40 is a combination of the best alternatives selected from the best prescriptions received and compounded by J. C. Mendenhall, Evansville, Ind., 40 years a druggist. The best druggist in your neighborhood sells Number 40, but if it happens that he does not, send direct to J. C. Mendenhall Medicine Company, Evansville, Indiana, and receive it delivered to you at $1.25 per bottle, six bottles for $7.00.

THE RURAL SCHOOL.

The most sacred or one of the most sacred places on earth—Visions of the little country school-house, the rough home-made desks, the elm beside the door, the dear old ball ground and the bubbling spring of my schooldays, all rise before me today—clearer than scenes of yesterday. Then was when my life, my character, my morality, in fact my whole future was formed. Looked to my teacher as the one who knew it all. What I am and what I am not is due to those years I spent at that little old schoolhouse. Great men have molded clay into many, many different shapes, others have made foundations for massive structures but no man has ever molded so many statues, etc., as the rural teacher has molded minds of boys and girls. No foundation has ever been made as great and strong as those made in the rural school. Then why not say the rural school is, or should be a sacred place?

Who is the most influential, teacher or pastor? Oh, you thought it was your pastor? Perhaps you are the parents of three or four children. They are in school under the influence and

KNOWS WHERE TO GO FOR HELP NOW

Another Nashville Woman
Tells of Benefits She Got
From Tanlac Three Years Ago.

"Tanlac relieved me of my troubles and put me in splendid condition three years ago, and I know just where to go when I need something to build me up," said Mrs. Louise E. Sneed, of 1218 Fifth Ave., North, Nashville, Tenn.

I suffered for years from stomach trouble and about three years ago I got into an awful condition. I couldn't eat a thing but what caused me to suffer agonies, my nerves were all upset. I couldn't sleep and I suffered a great deal from rheumatism. I had a dull heavy, languid feeling all the time, with no strength nor energy and at times my sufferings were almost unbearable.

"That was my condition when I got Tanlac, and I declare the medicine just made the most wonderful change in me. My stomach stopped bothering me, I began to sleep as sound as a baby, all my aches and pains left me and I was built up in every way until I felt fine all the time and I'm feeling that way yet. My faith has been pinned to Tanlac ever since that time. I'm getting this bottle now to tone me up in the change of seasons when spring comes on."

guidance of the rural teacher, five days out of a week. Maybe you go to church once a week (and I find in the communities where I've taught that not 1-2 of the parents attend church services once a month) and probably the smaller children attend Sunday school, but the boy of twelve or thirteen years is "too big" in his estimation for Sunday school. The influence of the teacher is a lasting one. The rural school is the beginning of most great lives.

No man has ever risen so high as to be ashamed of his little log school house. And if man breathes that "forty years ago" does not appeal to (even tho he is not 25 years of age) he is wrong and needs a physician. Now parents you were once children and influenced by the teacher or teachers in that country school. You remember every grape vine every moss bed, etc. You remember the voice, the expression and mood of the teacher. Now you have children that are being influenced by teachers of today. Are you caring or do you know the kind of influence those teachers are using? Visit the school. Know the teacher. Talk with her, encourage her and let your children know that you have an interest in them and in school. See if you can't influence and be influenced some. You get awake and the teacher is awake. The teacher is and the school is awake. Now help her keep the whole community awake. Mrs. R. E. C., Cloverport, Ky.

HERE IS COURT WARNING TO OWNERS OF CHICKENS

The court of appeals in the case of Adams Bros., against Clark has held that chickens are not allowed to trespass and the damages can be obtained from their trespassing. The plaintiff in the case sued for $600 damages claimed to have been sustained through chickens of the other party running at large. The lower court held that no damages could be claimed in such a case. The court of appeals reversed this decision and resubmitted the case to the lower court for judgment. In county court Judge Wells recently held in the case of Frank Gillis against George Prather that the plaintiff was entitled to $49 damages caused by the chickens of the defendant running at large.—Owensboro Messenger.

LEATHER PRICES NEAR BOTTOM, BOSLER SAYS.

"Leather prices are nearer the ground floor now than they have been for the last two years," Edward J. Bosler said yesterday in addressing the Exchange Club luncheon meeting at The Tyler. Mr. Bosler is national councillor for the leather trade in the United States Chamber of Commerce. "The leather business has been a game of chance since the close of the war, but it has fallen to such a state that at present leather is cheaper than paper," he said. "The trade will now have to begin a rehabilitation process in order to put it in a prosperous condition."

Entertainment was given at the meeting by local musical and dancing organizations.

Fordson Tractor

Demonstration and School

We will hold a tractor demonstration and school right in the city limits of Hardinsburg, all day Saturday, March 19. The fore noon will be devoted to plowing and harrowing and other farm work.

The afternoon will be used for general instructions by an expert from the Ford factory who will be on the grounds all day to explain all details of the Fordson tractor, plows, etc.

If you do not own a tractor, come and see the Fordson perform in actual service—if you do, come anyway, you will learn something of value about operating your own tractor.

All tractor dealers are invited to come and bring their tractors, we have plenty of room and will give you choice of the ground. So come and help work this—A farm school worth while.

Everyone invited, everything free, come and see the Fordson plow.

Can you do it?
Every day?

Not—and if you have a Sharples Suction-feed Separator you don't have to, for it skims equally clean whatever speed you turn. But with every other separator you must turn the crank at just exactly the speed stamped on it, or you will lose cream—every time! The wonderful Sharples Suction-feed varies the milk feed in direct proportion to the separating force—never more milk in the bowl than it can perfectly separate. All other separators have a fixed milk feed. Thus when turned below speed much of the milk runs out without being perfectly separated, and some gets into the cream, making it thin and uneven. Thousands of actual tests have proven that 19 out of 20 persons do turn too slow most of the time, and that everybody turns too slow some of the time. Get a

SHARPLES Famous Suction-feed "Skims clean at any Speed" SEPARATOR

the only separator that:

- skims clean at widely varying speeds
- gives the same thickness cream regardless of speed
- skims your milk quicker when you turn faster
- has only one piece in bowl—no discs, easy to clean
- has knee-low supply tank and once-a-month oiling

Sharples is positive insurance against carelessness and its consequent cream waste, because it skims clean at any speed. A speed indicator, which rings a bell when you turn an old-style fixed-feed separator below speed, is really an acknowledgment of the vast superiority of Sharples, which automatically prevents losses from irregular turning instead of simply announcing them. Call at my store and I will be glad to demonstrate to you this and the other superior features of the Sharples.
